

ROARS & WHISPERS

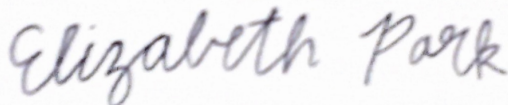

November 5, 2021

Dear Patrons:

The Roars & Whispers literary magazine staff would like to personally thank you for supporting us during this difficult time. Last year, we wondered if we could produce a magazine at all, but our staff persevered through remote learning and maintained our tradition of print publication.

The support from our patrons provides staff members access to high quality software and educational opportunities. These donations also cover critique services from national organizations. As a patron, your name will be printed in the back of this year's issue of Roars & Whispers. Additionally, your donations are tax deductible. Once our publication is finalized this spring, you will receive a complimentary copy of the magazine.

As a publication with the mission of showcasing the artistic voices of Providence High School, we are grateful we can continue providing quality student literature to the people who have supported us all these years. We appreciate your consideration during this challenging time, and look forward to our continued collaboration to highlight Providence's talented community.
